Minors' Rights Upheld By U.S. Supreme Court

by Harlan Belts
Staff Writer

The U.S. Judiciary is examining minors' rights and taking steps to protect them. On May 24, 1976, the U. S. Supreme Court upheld a lower court decision which eliminated Utah's parental consent requirement for minors receiving contraceptive services under federally funded programs.

This means that all family planning programs receiving Title XIX (Medicaid) and Title XX (AFDC) funds under the Social Security Act must serve otherwise eligible minors on their own consent.

According to the decision, federally funded family planning services can't discriminate on the basis of age.

On July 1, the Supreme Court ruled that states can no longer force married women to get consent from spouses before having an abortion.

The Supreme Court also ruled that unmarried female minors can no longer be forced by the state to get parental consent before an abortion.

In the ruling, parents no longer have a veto over a minor's right to abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

A Massachusetts' statute allows minors to obtain consent from a superior court if parents refuse permission. The Supreme Court has given Massachusetts state courts a chance to examine this law before determining it's constitutionality.

As the July 1 ruling said, "Constitutional rights do not mature and come into being magically only when one attains the state defined age of majority. Minors as well as adults are protected by the Constitution and possess constitutional rights..."

It's Sadie Hawkins Time

Women, it is your last chance to ask the man of your dreams to Saturday's Sadie Hawkins Dance in Morrison's Multi-purpose Room.

Tickets are on sale now from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Tawanka, and during the evenings at Morrison's front desk. Admission is 75 cents per couple in advance and $1.00 per couple the day of the dance.

The "Disco" is sponsored by Morrison's seventh floor, and albums, from Budget Tapes and Records and KEWC-FM, will be awarded to the best dressed girl and guy.

Don't miss it.

Catapult Builders Needed

Do you secretly have visions of empty beer kegs flying through the brisk Coeur d'Alene air?

If you do, the second annual EWSC Catapult Keg Toss team wants you to attend its meeting today at 3 p.m. in Cheney Hall, Room 205.

In last year's competition, EWSC's $3,500 catapult machine collapsed after it's first toss, but managed to take third place.

Geniuses, students, or interested persons are needed to help design, build and operate this year's vie for the championship, a challenge set forth by North Idaho College.

For further information, contact Dr. Martin at 359-7003, or leave your name and telephone number on the bulletin board in Cheney Hall.

Veteran Status Discussed At Meeting

by Peter Peters
Staff Writer

The Spokane County Veterans Conference was held last Tuesday at Monroe Hall and marked a significant step forward for the Vietnam era veteran not only at Eastern, but all over Washington State.

The conference, sponsored by the campus Veterans' Cooperative, featured Larry Triplet, assistant field director of the newly formed State Department of Veteran Affairs.

Triplet outlined objectives of the new agency, promising it would "study various state programs and work to make them more efficient by prompting more inter-agency cooperation, thus eliminating both red tape and a tendency of overlapping interests between these programs."

He also struck on a theme that pervaded the conference—the need for the contemporary veteran to become more organized "as a necessary and most efficient method for calling attention to and thereby solving the problems and shortcomings of the system in his best interest."

The truth in that statement became obvious when Triplet stated that "right now the majority of our work involves WW I and WW II veterans and their dependents."

Larry Williams, campus VCIP Coordinator, spoke on the problems encountered by campus vets over the years in their attempts to organize. "It's mainly a problem of continuity," he said. "No organization has prevailed from the outset. Most have died out with the graduation or transfer of their founders because there was really no one to pick up the ball and continue running with it. Usually a new group will come in and be forced to start over from scratch."

Williams also pointed out the necessity of resolving communication difficulties with such old line organizations like the VFW and American Legion as these organizations have been in existence for many years and have a large voice about governmental decisions and policies.

The government, on all levels, does not differentiate between veterans of different eras. It is the burden of the vets as a whole, and certainly to their advantage, to speak with one voice.

The President of the Veterans Cooperative, Dan Stanton, added to the theme. "The only way the Vietnam Vet is going to get anything, ever, is to organize once and for all on a large scale," he said.

Stanton announced a vital alliance between three contemporary veterans organizations: his own Vet's Co-Op, the Council of Representatives and Presidents, and the Washington Association of Veterans, as a unique step forward in allying diverse groups around the state under one banner.

Called the "Triad," the Vet's Co-Op, a political organization, will perform campus program services in the areas of housing and educational grants along with providing public relations services for the Triad.

CORP will lobby in the legislature in the interest of student veterans and WAV will conduct off-campus efforts for veterans.

Miracle Man Don Cox

Evangelist Says The End Is Near

by Gretchen Glass
Staff Writer

"I feel my generation will see the second coming of Christ because of the signs the Bible tells about," said Evangelist Don Cox, during a Miracle Crusade, Oct. 31 through Nov. 5, at the First Assembly of God Church in Spokane.

Throughout the crusade, Cox emphasized the importance faith plays in today's society. He explained how faith works as a stepping stone to miracles.

"I'm anticipating 200 to 300 miracles while I'm here," said Cox. He hoped that after he leaves people would continue to believe in miracles.

"I don't want to just take their money and leave," Cox said, "My purpose is to change their lives forever."

The Bible Trip

To prove the credibility of his sermon, Cox compared findings of today's scientists to predictions described in the Bible. He said the end is near because of the increase in heart attacks. According to Cox, the Bible states that fear and frustration will cause heart attacks. He said scientists have listed 80 to 90 per cent of heart attacks as "due to fear and frustration."

"If we can back up what the Bible says with scientific proof, then no one can break down the validity of the Bible," he said.

Cox compared scientific proof of UFO's with reports in the Bible that there will be signs in heaven when the end is near.

Commenting on the recent presidential election, Cox said that hope can't be placed on one man because the world's system is doomed to fail.

"There's not much he (Jimmy Carter) can do because the Bible says the earth will become as in the days of Noah - very chaotic and perverse - but he can slow down the rate of immorality in the U.S.," he said.

Cox said one sure sign of the destruction of the earth is the acceptance of homosexuals in churches and society.

"The Bible says men will be with men and women will love women... this will be prominent," he stated.

Miracles Performed

After the first few days there were people claiming to be healed of financial needs and minor physical problems. Cox said if everyone would just believe that they could be healed of anything.

"I probably have had more miracles than any of the people in the congregation," he said.

Cox related a story of how he was run over by a truck and was considered dead but through the prayers of his family and friends, he was healed.

Other miracles were reported throughout the Crusade including the restoration of hearing and one incident where a boy spoke for the first time saying, "Thank you, Jesus."

Cox travels to universities and conventions raising money for his T.V. program, "Hour of Hope," and leading many to Christ.

"It takes anywhere between $40,000 to $75,000 a year to keep my program running," he said. The "Hour of Hope" is not backed by any group or church but instead, depends on donations sent in by faithful listeners.

The program is staffed by 20 to 30 volunteers and several paid employees.

THE END IS NEAR? Evangelist Don Cox seems to think so. Cox was recently in Spokane to discuss the future of the Earth according to the Bible. (Photo by Gretchen Glass)

Hoot and Holler

Recent minor party candidates, including eight OWL Party candidates, are under investigation to determine whether they were entitled to avoid paying filing fees, the state attorney general's office said last week.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Malachy Murphy said a comparison of declarations of indigency—allowing the candidate to avoid paying the fee equal to one per cent of the salary of the office sought—and the public disclosure forms showed some candidates didn't qualify as paupers.

Treading Water

An oceanliner turned around and rescued a 64-year old woman nearly three hours after she fell overboard into the South Atlantic last week.

The incident occurred 1,400 miles from Cape Town when Margaret Fuller toppled 60 feet into the sea from the 36,000-ton Windsor Castle.

Fuller, who was wearing only a light dressing gown, was reported under heavy sedation, but not in any danger.

Earthquakes Galore

A flurry of about 60 earthquakes rumbled through the Imperial Valley area of Southern California last week with jolts as large as 4.9 on the Richter scale.

Little damage resulted from the quakes, but residents from as far away as San Diego reported feeling the tremors.

"It's not uncommon for these swarms to go on for a day or two," said Martin Friedman, an associate research seismologist at Cal Tech's earthquake lab.

Phantom Mailer

The Phantom Mailer has been sending out elaborately prepared, secret military documents to about two dozen company presidents, university professors specializing in weaponry and others.

The documents are impressive, but phony. Last week, the Mailer sent information to the Norfolk Ledger-Star, the first newspaper to receive one of the false reports.

The letter sent to the Ledger-Star gave the return address of Northrop, a defense contractor specializing in aircraft and weapons systems.

Northrop denied employing a D. Marshall, the name on the letter, but said that they were familiar with The Phantom Mailer.

Fuel Consumption

Motor fuel consumption will be the highest this year of any year in history, according to the Federal Highway Administration.

The agency has estimated that total consumption will reach 118.8 billion gallons of which 115 billion gallons will be used for highway travel. This is an increase of 4.4 billion gallons.

Increased highway driving and higher speeds were listed as reasons for the increase by the Highway Administration.

Ford's Unemployment

President Ford will not join the ranks of the poor, unemployed when he leaves the White House in January.

As a former President under the Presidential Pension Act, Ford will receive $63,000 a year, according to White House Press Secretary John Carlson.

Carlson also said that Ford would be eligible for another pension based on his 25 years as a Michigan congressman.

Ford will receive pension benefits totaling nearly $100,000.

EWSC Campus Police Beat

by Sheri Bayley
Staff Writer

One $45 camera Tri-Pod and one $70 four-band radio were taken from the basketball room in the Pavilion sometime between Oct. 23 and 24.

The Campus Safety officer reported that the door could be opened with a pencil or credit card. The door has since been fixed.

Pot Party?

A call reporting a possible "pot party" in one of the rooms on the fourth floor of Dressler Hall was investigated by an officer at 12:32 a.m. on Oct. 29.

The officer and Dorm Director Darryl Zehner, who had been notified, were admitted to the room by the registered occupants. The officer checked the room visually and by smell. He detected no odor of marijuana.

Only one person in the room had a beer.

According to the report, "the music was rather loud and approximately 12 to 15 persons, male and female, were present...all were reasonably cooperative."

The officer's opinion was that the party was a "talking get-together and no violations were taking place."

Zehner requested the party be broken up due to the hour of the night.

Fire Alarm

Dressler Hall was involved in another incident the following evening, Oct. 30 at 3:37 a.m. This time, however, a false fire alarm occurred.

An officer arrived and after checking the Master Fire Box, determined the alarm on the ninth floor had been pulled.

Residents returned to their rooms after the officer had checked the building.

Rock Climbing Injury

Steven J. Kinn, student, was injured during an EWSC rock climbing class at Minnehaha Park in Spokane at 5:40 on Oct. 30.

Al Ewert, instructor, filed the report.

The report stated that Kinn was climbing on one of the face routes at Minnehaha. He was top roped with Vince Bozzi as his belayer.

Kinn was approximately 40 feet off ground and decided to downclimb. He was using a swami belt with leg loops and had on a helmet.

The report stated that at "about 30 feet off ground he (Kinn) either slipped or decided to use the rope to be lowered down and swung out from the rock...the initial fall was very short due to being top roped. Vince then appeared to release the belay and instead of breaking the fall, letting the rope slide around his body."

Ewert tried to grab the rope himself, but Kinn hit the bottom before Ewert could secure the rope.

Ewert's assistant, Steve Warren, went for an ambulance. Ewert began a cursory exam of Kinn, the findings of which were: no apparent broken bones, a dislocated wrist, cuts on mouth, forehead and wrist, no abnormal pupil dialation, no apparent head fracture or fluid in ears.

Kinn complained of a broken tooth and numbness in his legs. He was in shock.

Kinn was taken to Holy Family Hospital by ambulance.

The report further stated that no equipment deficiencies were found and that "Bozzi had demonstrated an adequate understanding of belaying principles."

Legislative Internships Available

Student applications are now being taken for appointments to the Legislative Internship Program for the 1976 Washington State Legislative Session. Student interns selected for the program will have the unique opportunity to participate in legislative politics through an assignment to either an individual legislator or to a legislative committee for the duration of the legislative session beginning in January.

EWSC students will be participating in an internship program that now involves 50 students from 14 colleges and universities in the state. Professor Kenneth Hossom of the Department of Government will be administering the program at Eastern and further inquiries should be directed to him in the Department of Government.

The Legislative Internship Program is funded by the State Legislature to provide participating students with the financial means to cover the difference in basic living expenses while in Olympia rather than Spokane or Cheney. Each intern will earn 15 upper division credit-hours in Government during Winter Quarter.

In order to apply for an internship position, a student must have an overall grade point average of 2.6 or better. The student must have junior or senior standing, and must have been enrolled at EWSC for at least one academic year. The student does not need to be a Government major or minor; however, some academic background in the field will be required.

An orientation to the institutions and processes of state legislative politics will be provided the EWSC interns through a short series of seminars by the Department of Government in early January.

Application forms for this program are available in the Government Office in Patterson Hall, Room 2063. These applications must be returned to Professor Hossom by November 22, 1976.

Letters To The Editor

The Gospel Truth

Dear Editor:

Where was William C Phipps educated, for it is a sad commentary on our educational system that he could get to a college with such a poor or is it complete lack of knowledge of geography. Jerusalem is in Israel, which is at the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea, not North Africa.

His church has certainly failed him also for his gross ignorance of the Bible is appalling. He claims belief in Jesus - so the assumption is he has some religious belief and/or affiliation. Even the least knowledgeable person knows the Bible story in that Joseph and Mary went to Nazareth to be taxed for they were of the House and Lineage of David.

The genealogy of Jesus is fully documented in the Bible. True, the family fled to Egypt which is in North Africa - but then that too is where Joseph (of the coat of many colors) was taken when he was sold into slavery by his jealous brothers and where he became a very important person in the court of Pharaoh - and Egypt is where Moses started from to lead the Chosen People out of bondage.

The people of the Eastern Mediterranean are not Black. They are Arabs, Syrians, Lebanese, Turks, Armenians, Greeks and Semites. Many Greeks are blond, blue-eyed, very light skinned, as are some Armenians and some Semites. True, most are dark-eyed, dark-haired and olive-skinned.

The North African Bedouins were Arabs as they are today.

The Bible mentions the Nubian kingdom South of Egypt, also the Nubians are specifically described as Black.

As to his statement that there are no European Prophets, only philosophers - he again fails to take into account, the times of the prophets. Europe was not the cultural center then that it has since become. Where does he put Luther, Wesley, Knox, Calvin?

True there are no photographs of Jesus or any of his disciples. However, there are descriptions of persons belonging to the same area and times of Jesus.

There have been more than enough half truths, taking statements out of context and twisting of words to suit personal end. Let us stop the petty squabbling and raking up differences to keep society stirred up and on edge and let us all pull together to make a better world.

Maybe if Mr. Phipps would set us an example, we would know what he expects of the world.

Really Mr. Phipps, why don't you read your Bible and stop putting your foot in your mouth and stirring people up.

B.E. McBurney

Editor's Note: Some people do not accept the Bible as the literary solution toward finding God. Because of its age and the individuals who composed it (namely followers of Christ), the Bible is considered by many to be the all-time best seller for fictitious work. It would be in your favor to convince Mr. Phipps about Jesus Christ in another manner without resorting to a 2,000-year-old publication.

Pot Message

Dear Editor:

Fellow students, I have a dream. It is a building piston-head in shape as many stories high as it must be. On each floor of my building, you will find four rooms across and each story slightly shifted so that the effect is a high ladder twisted around many times by the time you reach the top.

In each room, you will find a Hayes Griffith, (U of Ore.) Ultra-High Vacuum Photoemission electron, Microscope. The latest computer Terminals, a Spectroscopic Analyzer and other toys of the Theoretical Bio Chemist-Physicist and Medical Scientist. And People? Yes, Biochemists, Mathematicians, Chemists, Biologists, Cellular Biologists, Computer Programmers, Physicists, Electronic Engineers and an Army of Undergrad Science Majors.

What will these people be doing? They will be studying separate segments of DNA! In hopes that within a short period of time, cancer will be eradicated as it is found in whatever shape or form.

I have had this far-fetched dream since my dear grandmother Elizabeth Chapman died many years ago and I will fight for the means to my end until my dream is realized.

There is an immediate means to accomplishing this end, it is the federal legalization and controlled market of marijuana. I am not suggesting that pot is good for you or to smoke a doobie for science.

I will say that people will continue to smoke pot and that the Annual profit of a billion dollars per annum could be put to fantastic use by society. For societies all over the world. Please support me and my cause at the state level via your local college student state lobby. Thomas M. Condon Sociology UCI

P.S. And don't forget the many little extras acquired via spinoff in the Moon Race. Those will be astounding in this instance also. Editor's Note: This has to be one of the most intellectually stimulating letters received thus far.

Dog Eat Dog

Dear Editor:

Dog eat Dog.

In regard to the static given and taken as it exists, the Easterner rates and criticizes the main topics of news. Whether it be in social news or no news, yet it goes on and on. Even though people try to take or bite back at the Easterner, the only accomplishment is the return of the bite. There seems to be less important news coming out and just a bunch of dogs eating at each other.

Without this dog-eating feast staged by the Easterner and the public, it seems the whole thing could be cleared up without all this bad news occurring.

So let's really get some news printed and not provide material that will continue the Dog-eat-Dog campaign. Or else die a slow death, by over-eating.

Another Holy Story

It was a cold and rainy night in late December. Parked outside the Bethlehem Steel Plant was a red, white and blue VW micro bus. Inside the vehicle, a baby boy had just been born. The proud parents were Peter, Paul and Mary, members of a rhythm and blues trio.

Mary, who incidentally was a virgin before the conception of this child, elected to name her son Jasas Horatio Goldstein. Peter and Paul, polishing off a bottle of Ripple, were pleased with the selection. As a matter of fact, they were pleased with anything at that point.

Meanwhile, several miles away, three musicians from different groups were following a bright and talented "rock" star to the birthplace of young Jasas. All were good friends of Peter, Paul and Mary. Usually Mary. Ironically, all smoked Camel cigarettes.

Once they reached the Bethlehem site, a temporary illumination shot out from the micro bus. One of the musicians remarked, "that must be it, Peter and Paul are probably celebrating."

After climbing into the bus, one of the musicians presented to Mary a bottle of Mogen David wine while another awarded Peter and Paul with some incense that had a heavenly aroma. The third man, slightly ahead of his contemporaries in music, gave baby Jasas an electric guitar. At this time, this instrument was just being introduced to the music profession.

Because of her work schedule with Peter and Paul, Mary had to eventually leave the child with her older brother, a cat named Joseph. Joseph, a part-time drummer with a group called "The Carpenters", was a gentle man and had a good beat.

Jasas, now a teenager, was distraught with school but not with his electric guitar. As a child he had plugged it into the toaster, a wall socket or anywhere else he could find. Joseph eventually acquired an amplifier for the lad and he began to play fairly well. When he had the time or wasn't intoxicated, Joseph taught the boy more sophisticated chords on the guitar. Jasas evolved into a talented guitarist.

One day while Jasas was strumming on the guitar in his room, Joseph entered and told him that he was having a party that night despite the absence of any alcohol. "All we have to drink around here is water," Joe grumbled. "I wish that bathtub of ours could produce something else besides soapy water."

As the guests arrived that night, Joseph didn't see Jasas anywhere in the house. He searched the bedrooms, the basement, under the couch, practically everywhere except the bathroom. When he reached it, he found Jasas sitting on the toilet playing his guitar. He noticed the bathtub was filled to the brim with a purple substance.

Joseph poked his finger in the liquid and tasted it. "This must have rum, gin, Welch's grape juice, vodka and who knows what else in it!" he exclaimed happily. He looked at Jasas and said, "Did you do this?" The boy continued to play his instrument and just smiled.

Later that night, everybody was feeling good, thanks to the punch. Some thought it was far-out that Jasas had transformed the bathtub water into a pool of alcoholic delight. Others thought it was a miracle. Jasas continued to smile.

Jasas was constantly performing little "miracles" like this. Once, at a rock concert near a lake where he was playing, there were several hundred people in attendance. Most of them had the "munchies." Jasas told the audience to remain calm and a little later, a few trucks pulled up with enough McDonald's fish sandwiches to feed King Herod's army. Another miracle?

The true talent of the boy, however, was his ability to make his guitar talk, scream, preach, moan and sing. He played with such intensity and an inspired devotion. Soon, his small group of followers became multitudes. His group, "The Apostles" had topped the rock charts and were a big hit with the younger generation.

Those who identified themselves with Jasas' music encountered one distinct problem however. The "establishment" wasn't particularly fond of Jasas or his followers, the Goldsteinians. Many of them lost their jobs, were forced to cut their hair or were crossed by their friends.

One man who especially despised Jasas and his music was Buck Pilate, an Israeli country-western singer. Buck and his band, "The Nail Driving Five," feared Jasas' music would cause their group eventual financial hardship.

During a tour in Nashville, Jasas, now sporting a beard, sandals, robe and long hair, was confronted by Pilate. "Get your band, groupies, and followers out of here or there's going to be real trouble," Pilate warned. Jasas ignored him and continued to devour a cheeseburger.

It was their last night in Nashville and the "Apostles" were scheduled to have a big show at the Coliseum, where the Detroit Lions used to practice. Jasas, upset with Buck's remarks, told his band and road crew they would have dinner at A&W instead of McDonald's. Little did he realize it would be his last supper.

While the members of the band were gobbling down onion rings and baby burgers, Jasas didn't eat or drink much that night. Just bread and some wine. Matthew, Lurch and John, the songwriters of the group, decided to write a verse or two on Jasas's inability to pass up a cheeseburger, groupie or onion rings.

After the concert, "The Apostles" discovered that their trucks had been sabotaged, probably by Pilate's men. Jasas told the group they would have to carry the equipment back to their hotel, The Calvary Inn. He elected to carry a large amplifier on his back.

While walking down Thorn Street, the group was heckled by spectators. Jasas found the 500-pound amp to be uncomfortable and occasionally fell to the ground. When they reached the hotel, he was dead tired. He collapsed on his bed. The next morning, he was dead.

The rock world was shocked. "The Apostles" disbanded. Nevertheless, Goldsteinians remained faithful. Mathew, Lurch and John produced a song book that depicted Jasas' work and philosophies.

The Bable, as the book was later called, became a sacred piece to those who believed in Jasas and his music, or guitar. Some said they could find the true meaning of life in it. Others used it as a guiding tool to answer questions concerning sex, morals, music or cheeseburgers.

In memory of Jasas, other members of the band and followers began to construct sound studios, record companies and Jasas Hamburger restaurants. These buildings were called "crutches", or places where Jasas' memory lived on.

Meanwhile, Peter, Paul and Mary were outside the Bethlehem Steel Plant once again. Although they were retired from music and were reaching an elderly age, they still enjoyed life, especially Peter and Paul. They asked Mary if she wanted to have some fun, implying sex. "For Christ's sake, go to bed and shut up," she growled back. It was December 25th once again.

ADVANCED MOTORING TIPS

by Gilbert Shelton

I PROPOSE TO REMEDY THE SITUATION WITH ONE BOLD PLAN: A NATIONAL RACING COMPETITION TO WEED OUT THE MISFITS! IN ORDER TO RETAIN A DRIVER'S LICENSE, EVERYONE WOULD BE REQUIRED TO COMPETE ONCE A YEAR AT ONE OF MANY CONVENIENTLY LOCATED RACETRACKS THROUGHOUT THE LAND.

A DRIVER NEED NOT WIN A RACE TO EARN HIS LICENSE, BUT HE MUST EITHER FINISH THE MINIMUM NUMBER OF LAPS FOR A COMPLETE RACE, OR SURVIVE A SPECTACULAR CRASH THAT WAS NOT HIS OWN FAULT. CAR FAILURE FLUNKS YOU.

FOR FAIRNESS, DRIVERS ARE REQUIRED ONLY TO RACE AGAINST OTHER CARS OF APPROXIMATELY THE SAME SPEED. EACH CAR IS ASSIGNED A NUMBER WHICH SIGNIFIES ITS RANK NATIONALLY IN ITS CLASS, FROM A (UNLIMITED) TO Z (VW VANS).

THOSE WHOSE CARS BREAK DOWN DURING A RACE ARE AUTOMATICALLY SUSPENDED UNTIL THE NEXT RACE, WHICH IS ONE MONTH AWAY. THE DRIVER WILL USE THIS MONTH TO WORK ON HIS CAR. THE TOP 1,000 NUMBERS IN EACH CLASS SHALL BE DEEMED NATIONAL HEROES AND BE ACCORDED SPECIAL PRIVILEGES WHEREVER THEY ROAM.

MORE ON THIS INGENUOUS PLAN LATER! MEANWHILE, FOLKS, SEND IN YOUR OWN DRIVING SUGGESTIONS TO GILBERT SHELTON'S ADVANCED MOTORING TIPS IN CARE OF THIS PAPER! KEEP THOSE LETTERS COMING!

A Good Ol' Talk With Shorty Barnhill

Where does one draw the line in terms of regulating the rights of an individual in a democratic society? Regardless of one's personal viewpoint on pornography, there is an important, underlying issue involved in the controversy of the prohibition of adult bookstores in Spokane that should be focused upon. That issue is the protection of the Constitutional rights of the individual. It is the opinion of these two reporters that this matter, which even the Supreme Court has been unable to resolve, should be decided by the vote of all the people and not by the personal bias of some members of the Spokane City Council.

Shorty Barnhill, owner of the Adult Entertainment Center, South 164 Browne, is facing prosecution as a result of the emergency ordinance #23398 which has passed by the Spokane City Council against adult bookstores.

According to P.A.C. (People Against Censorship), ordinance #23398 violates:

Article 1, section 9, Amendment 1, Amendment 5 and Amendment 14 of the United States Constitution.

The ordinance also violates: Article 1, sections 5, 16, 23, of the Washington State Constitution, and Article 2: R.C.W. 5.60.040.

Q: How did you get involved in opening up an adult bookstore?

A: I first went to work for Ramone Sise, the owner of the Curious Bookstore. I then worked for U.S. Manufacturing, who make various types of machines, and I talked them into opening up a store on Sprague. So, I managed that for awhile. I saved up a little here and there, taking stock when I could instead of money and eventually opened up my own little store. That is the way I got into it.

Q: Over the course of the last few years, quite a few (eight to be exact) adult bookstores have opened up in this area. Is there that large of a market for this type of business?

A: There is a market for the amount of stores here. No one is going to get filthy rich from it, but people can make a living. Most of the stores have one or more employees. In fact, I think there are about 30 people working for adult bookstores besides the owners.

Q: What type of clientele do you attract?

A: I have every type of people from every walk of life, from the deepest gutter to the attorneys, policemen, housewives, just every kind of person. I sell a lot of stuff to women. I would say that over 50 per cent of my business is with women. Women tend to buy pocketbooks and rubber novelty items while men tend to stick to magazines and films.

Q: Could you give us your personal views on pornography? Do you enjoy it?

A: I read the pocket books, but I don't care for the movies and magazines much. I would rather listen to a tape or read a book and fantasize. I would like to make a point here though and you can check this out. I told you earlier that I had been a musician. Well, I knew this guy for 10 years or longer, this Barnhart, the guy who confessed to murdering his wife and cutting her up. We used to play together, musically. When I first went to work in my bookstore, he passed me on the street one day and had found out that I worked there. He stuck his head in and said, "Shorty, I didn't think you would sink this low." He was the type of guy who would not even go near that type of store, yet he could kill his wife.

Q: Do you have anything in your store that would be considered way out?

A: In my bookstore there is nothing for a way out sex pervert, nothing for pain or anything like that.

Q: Do you see any connection between the recent flurry of rapes and your business?

A: I cannot make a connection and I don't know of anyone who has, except maybe the (Spokane) City Council.

Q: Why is Wayne Guthrie and the City Council focusing are you in particular?

A: I am the smallest operator, everything in my store is owned by me. I am not connected with a larger company or any other bookstores as some of the others are. I am about as poor as a guy can get, so I don't have a lot of money to spend on legal fees.

Q: Do you have legal counsel?

A: Fred Truehart, who I think is a member of the A.C.L.U., was first retained by some of the other bookstore owners when this first started and now I have his help.

Q: What do you think your chances in court are?

A: We would have to be darn lucky to win on a local level. More than likely, our best shot would be at the appeals level. Getting my share of the money for the appeals will be the hard part for me. After that point, the A.C.L.U. will take over the expense.

Q: What is your involvement with P.A.C. (People Against Censorship)?

A: I am behind them because their interest is my interest. I am helping with the fund-raising rally we are having at the Branding Iron Tavern this Thursday by getting some of the musicians I know to play there for free.

Q: Who runs P.A.C.?

A: Janet Price is the organizer and started it.

Q: Does she have a financial interest in any of the adult bookstores?

A: No, not at all.

Q: Do you know Wayne Guthrie personally?

A: No, although I have met him several times. I don't know what Mr. Guthrie's shot is, maybe to keep his name in front of the people. I'll tell you what makes me so mad is that I worked hard to get him and Mrs. Stanton elected to the City Council. I worked really hard for Mr. Guthrie because here is a man I thought, who has done just about everything anyone else has done in a normal life time. He has accumulated a great deal of wealth on his own and he is a smart businessman. He has been on both sides of the rail, being in prison at one time. Here I thought, was a man who can understand almost everyone. But everything he has done since he got on the City Council is the opposite of what I thought he would do.

Q: What do you think about his attack on the gay people in Spokane?

A: I don't know his reasoning behind the push against gay people because the way he talks, it is like they're not really human, like you could just bury them or throw them in the river to get them out of the way. On KREM news, he said he was violently opposed to these people. Well, these are people, maybe they possibly wouldn't mind being a different kind of people either. Like me, I wouldn't mind being as strong as Muhammed Ali, but I can't be. You have to be yourself no matter who or what you are.

Q: Have you received any letters in regards to the adult bookstore issue?

A: I have received over 300 letters regarding the pornography issue in town and not one of them is against me. So, one moment I am running a business and the next moment I am a criminal because of the new ordinance.

Q: Have any of the members of the City Council been inside your bookstore?

A: I know that not one of them had been in my store before they passed this ordinance and after they did they sent police in to buy some of the material. They asked me to pick out the raunchiest magazine and I did. The thing is that I have many police officers who buy material from my bookstore for their own personal use.

Q: Would the average person be offended by walking past your bookstore?

A: You can't see anything from the outside of the store, no naked bodies, nothing at all. When you walk into the store, there is a sign which warns you that there is sexually explicit material inside the store. No one has to go in if they don't want to. It is not someone who has been in the bookstores who is causing the fuss, it is someone who has not been in one. It's a funny thing in a way. We are paying license fees and taxes to the city so that they can close us down.

Q: What are your plans for the future?

A: Well, to fight this issue as long as possible. P.A.C. has a petition drive to put this whole matter in front of the people to vote on. If the people vote to close down the adult bookstores, then that is the way it should be. But, we feel that the ordinance the City Council passed violates the first, fifth, and fourteenth amendments of the U.S. Constitution. According to the Supreme Court, the local communities should decide what is or is not obscene to them. So, let's give the people of Spokane the right to decide it.

Q: If the people were to decide against having adult bookstores, would you open up another in some other town like Cheney?

A: Yes, I would find someplace to open one up. I have looked at Wallace, ID. and have found that it might be a good place.

Q: Would you like to make a final closing statement?

A: I am a family man and have lived in this area for over 20 years. People have been buying magazines and films through the mail for years and many of them have been ripped off badly. I know some people who have lost hundreds of dollars from such things. But, when they come into a store like mine and buy something, if they don't think it was what they were looking for, they can bring it back and get a refund. So, in a way besides the therapeutic value we offer, we are also a form of consumer protection. So, those people who would like to help, please support P.A.C. which really is a defense fund for your rights. I won't quit, like Porter Waggoner says, "I'll go down swinging."

"I have many police officers who buy material from my bookstore for their own personal use."

Third Woman Governor In U.S.

Dr. Ray Eager For New Job

by Nancy Greer
Staff Writer

Dr. Dixy Lee Ray, newly elected governor of Washington, is the first woman west of the Mississippi ever to hold a state's highest office.

Governor-elect Ray, who defeated Republican opponent John Spellman by a margin of 130,000 votes, said, "I would be the last one to know if my being a woman helped or hindered me."

Excluding absentee ballots, the final tally in the Nov. 2 election totaled 732,697 for Ray and 602,990 for Spellman. In Spokane County, however, their positions were reversed as Spellman narrowly edged out Ray by less than 200 votes.

Dr. Ray taught Marine Biology for 31 years at the University of Washington before accepting a presidential appointment to serve on the Atomic Energy Commission. She resigned that position in 1975.

"After a long time as a scientist I became interested in politics. You could call me a late bloomer," said Dr. Ray.

A top priority for Dr. Ray when she takes over the helm from outgoing Gov. Dan Evans in January is tackling unemployment, particularly among the young.

"We have to provide jobs for young people or else they'll move to other states seeking employment," she said. "If we lose our young people, we lose our most precious resource."

The outspoken, energetic new governor firmly asserts that she will maintain an open administration. "Faith can be renewed in the strength of government. Not overnight of course, but with time, effort and good intentions it can be done," said Dr. Ray.

"The role of government is primarily for the well-being of all citizens. We must look very carefully at what we can do and cannot do," she added.

The new Democratic governor is undaunted at assuming leadership in a state ruled by Republicans for the past 12 years. Admitting that governmental changes are needed, Ray replied, "We'll have to stop talking about reform and do something about it."

Campus Fashion Report

by Dennis Welsh
Staff Writer

College fashion seems to have taken a turn upward this year.

A look around campus this fall finds more people wearing slacks, dresses, fine shirts, belts and all kinds of expensive looking clothes, than ever before. The dressy look is back, and the "wear what you bring" look of the past few years is dwindling.

Jeans are in, as always, but in a more conservative way. The wide navy bells of yesterday are few and far between. Overalls for example, are not as in as before. A year or two ago, a lot of people were wearing the double-strapped jeans. Now, only a few are seen on campus. I am one of those few.

People look as if they're ready for a night at the Black Angus, rather than a day on the farm. Which brings me to the point of this article. Do people want comfort in fashion, or do they just want to look good?

Personally I'm one for comfort. I'm more comfortable in a pair of overalls than a pair of slacks anytime.

I feel like a packed sardine whenever I wear a vested suit. A tie reminds me of a noose. The only pair of stacked heels I ever owned were thrown away before the price tag was worn off.

It seems that in the world of competitive clothes, people will strain themselves to great limits just to look a little better than their neighbor. Fine clothes are once again the thing on college campuses, but comfort is flying out the chicken coop door.

Overalls, like other less dressy clothes, may be fading out, but there will always be a few of us old diehards. And we are confident they will eventually come back in.

So if you feel comfortable in the new dress it up, pack it in, put in on look, for this fall, then wear it. But I'll stick to my overalls, because comfortable fashion is the best fashion of all.

Jobs Are Available

Staff Writer

Turn some of your free time into money by applying for a part-time job through the Student Employment Office.

The office, located in Rm 114, Showalter Hall, offers a variety of jobs and pay scales for Eastern students.

Student Employment Director Jeanette Stiffler said that any student can apply for a job. People who apply for jobs should keep checking in the office to increase their chances of getting the job they desire.

Most people who keep coming in are able to find employment within a month, according to Stiffler.

Stiffler said that the Student Employment Service is becoming increasingly popular and is free of charge to both students and prospective employers.

Rap Around

by Ed Evans

Since the presidential election between Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford was very close, are you still satisfied with the overall results and do you think the next four years will be productive?

RICKIE W. ROBINSON, Child Development, senior, 24: Historically, the democratic administrations have been socially, civically and economically more productive for Black Americans. But, there are so many forked-tongue foxes in government that only time will tell. Hope we get through the summer.

DOUG SLY, Journalism, senior, 22: The federal bureaucracy is in dire need of fresh faces and new ideas. It will be interesting to see if a President of the U.S. is even capable of taking on established bureaucracies. I am pleased with the close election because Carter now realizes his every move will be closely scrutinized. Landslides lead to Nixons. Two trouble spots for this Democratic president in the next four years could be rising inflation and the prospects of war because Carter may be relatively unchecked by the House and Senate.

SHAWNA REITAN, Music, freshman, 18: I am satisfied with the results, even though I did vote for Ford. I feel the country needs a change and it seems the American people want that change from Carter. Whether or not the next four years will be productive, depends on if Carter fulfills his campaign promises, and that, I wouldn't bet on.

IRVIN W. PARKER, Drama Education, senior, 20: I feel that the next four years will be trying years for Jimmy Carter, but like Ford, he will have four years to prove himself. I, myself, voted for Carter, so I have no doubt that he will succeed in making this country a better place in which to live.

Buddhist School To Open Soon

by Sheri Bayley
Staff Writer

Dharma Realm University, the first Buddhist University in the Western world, will open in February 1977, according to a recent report.

The University is the first major effort by the Buddhist community to establish a tradition of Buddhist higher education in America.

The main campus will be located in Talmage, Calif. where a recently formed Buddhist community, The City of Ten Thousand Buddhas, resides. An extension campus will be located in San Francisco, Calif.

Programs of instruction that concentrate on the practical application of learning will be emphasized at the University.

The school will offer A.A., B.A., M.A., and Ph.D degrees in Buddhist Studies, Liberal Arts and Sciences, and Practical, Creative, and Individual Arts.

A World Religious Center and an International Translation Center will be connected with the University.

All programs are open to qualified students regardless of religious background and courses in religious studies will not be required.

The campus will initially consist of three large brick buildings, set among trees and lawns. Seven other existing major buildings have been allocated for future use.

The University is a branch of the Sino-American Buddhist Association, a tax-exempt, non-profit religious and educational corporation.

For more information, write Dharma Realm University, City of Ten Thousand Buddhas, P.O. Box 217, Talmage, Calif. 95481. Telephone (707) 462-0939, or for the University's San Francisco extension, (415) 861-9672.

SASSY LEE SUPRENANT of Cheshire, Mass., is one of 16 members of DANCE-EWSC, the performing dance troupe on campus. The group is currently rehearsing for their Fall concert to be presented on Dec. 1, 2, 3 and 4 at 8 p.m. in the Dustin Dance Studio, P.E. Phase II. (EWSC Dance Dept. photo)

"Fishing's somethin' I've been doing ever since I was old enough to walk. And there's been a lot of changes... like, when they were over-plantin' the Stillwater and the Boulder... and those fish were competin' with the native trout. But, they've stopped that now... and we've got a good population of Browns again."

We asked Dwayne if he ever enjoyed a good beer when he was out fishing?

"That's what you carry a creel for... to carry your Oly. Some flatlanders once tried to get me to change my beer... no way... Olympia's the only beer for me."

We pointed out to Dwayne that the great taste of Oly goes all the way back to 1896. That only the very choicest hops, grains and naturally pure artesian water have ever been good enough for brewing Olympia Beer. And that we're not about to change.

"I don't want it to change, either. It seems like everything else is changin' round here... but don't change my Oly Beer."

Olympia never will.

Benson, Klemmer Performance Unbeatable

Entertainment Editor

There was a very special concert Friday evening in the Phase III Pavilion.

Two of the finest jazz-influenced performers today, guitarist George Benson and saxophonist John Klemmer, shared the bill for an evening of sensitive musical improvisation of a high order.

Benson was the main attraction for the packed audience. But, after Klemmer's performance, it was difficult to say that he and his group were the "back up," after they were begged for richly deserved encores. One might rather say Klemmer was a "very special" guest. Klemmer's stylish show was a tough act to follow.

Benson and his impressive band were plagued by a faulty mike at the beginning of their performance, but luckily the problems soon died out. Benson's lead guitar solos proved what an imaginative improviser and brilliant instrumentalist he is.

Given his immense stature as an instrumentalist, it is ironic, but somehow fitting that Benson gets under the skin with his falsetto voice. Whether considered as a vocalist or an instrumentalist, Benson was an incomparable artist Friday.

The most powerful moments of Benson's performance were his definitive vocal rendition of Leon Russell's "Masquerade," which is currently riding the crest of a number one nation-side hit.

Benson also sang a version of George Harrison's "Here Comes the Sun" which was warmly greeted by a totally involved audience.

During Benson's encore, a crowd of enthusiastic fans broke loose from their seats and frantically rushed towards the stage.

Klemmer and his four-piece group played an inspired set of subtle, supple melodies in the honeyed tones of his expressive saxophone, including the title cut from their latest album, "Barefoot Ballet," a moving number featuring Klemmer's tenor sax and an organ harmony.

During his entire performance, Klemmer cradled his horn as if it were his baby. His sax has been with him a long time—since high school.

In an intermission interview, Klemmer said his music doesn't play him, he plays the music!

The group's superb drummer, Glenn Symmonds, is a graduate of West Valley High School in Spokane. Offstage after the group's performance, Symmonds was greeted by his local chums.

There would be no disagreement among those who were present that both Benson and Klemmer are artists endowed with a rare, mysterious spark of imagination.

Both men never ceased to bring the hypnotized audience in a continual up and down emotional trance, and that is exactly how Benson and Klemmer reach as many people as possible.

Editor's Note: Entertainment Editor Collins lost her seat to a University of Washington student following her intermission interview with Klemmer. Although her buttocks were uncomfortable on the floor, Collins still got her review on Benson. Many thanks to the UW student.

Review: "The Devil's Disciple"

by Barb Collins
Entertainment Editor

A fundamental tenet in G. Bernard Shaw's philosophy says that there is something in the nature of every man that will always respond to the highest demands made upon it.

On opening night last Thursday in the EWSC College Theatre, "The Devil's Disciple" illustrated Shaw's point theatrically by proposing that a disciple of the devil will yet lay down his life for another man.

"The Devil's Disciple," Shaw's first box-office success, is a conventional melodrama with a mixture of plot devices that includes a reading of a will, an oppressed orphan finding a protector, an arrest, a heroic sacrifice, a court martial, a scaffold and a reprieve at the last moment, thrown together in a period of considerable upheaval during the American Revolution.

Director Gene L. Eugene, EWSC assistant professor of drama, drew vitality from all the actors and actresses in the play which guaranteed an attentive audience.

Scott Hibbert stole the show with his outstanding portrayal of Dick Dudgeon, the devil's disciple. Dick pities the devil; takes his side; and champions him, like a true convenanter, against the world and Hibbert's piercing intimidations not only were felt on stage, but in the audience too.

Playing Dick Dudgeon's younger brother Christy, is Stephen Grenley, who gives a hilarious performance of a "bumbling" idiot. A comedy team of Grenley and Hibbert could produce a bizarre act on Saturday Night Live.

Patricia Joyner was a perfect choice for the role of Judith Anderson, the minister's pretty wife, 20 years younger than her husband. Joyner's charming characterization of Judith reveals to the audience that the minister's wife never comes to grips with the understanding that Dick didn't risk his life for her sake, but that he would have done as much for any stranger—that the law of his own nature, and no interest nor lust whatsoever, forbade him to cry out that hangman's noose should be taken off his neck only to be put on another man's.

The courageous, affectionate, practical minister is played by Randy Soelberg, whose acting ability carried out Shaw's belief that there is a way to hell even from the gates of heaven, and so led us to the equally true proposition that there is a way to heaven even from the gates of hell.

There is only one criticism one might find in Soelberg's portrayal and that is it was hard to be convinced Minister Anderson was 20 years older than his wife. Even though Soelberg's hair was greyed, his voice and movements were not of an older man.

An example of excellence in portraying age is that of Melody Deatherage, who took the part of Mrs. Annie Dudgeon. Deatherage plays Dick's mother and leaves no one in doubt that Annie is an elderly matron who has worked hard and got nothing by it except dominion and detestation in her sordid home.

Bonnie Davis took the role of Essie, the oppressed orphan. Davis mastered the role of portraying the wild, timid looking creature.

Acting as General Burgoyne is Thomas Armitage, who brings the distinguished general to life. Armitage amusingly brings to the surface the general's temperament and fine spirit.

"The Devil's Disciple" will be presented again tonight, Friday and Saturday in the College Theater at 7:30 p.m. EWSC students are admitted FREE with an exchange coupon from the PUB information desk.

Eagles Lose Lead, Game 44-31

by Pete Peters
Sports Writer

The never-say-die Screaming Eagles pulled out all the stops against potent Oregon College of Education Saturday, but it wasn't enough to prevent the Wolves from prevailing 44-31, and, in the process, wrapping up their second straight EvCo Conference championship.

Coach John Massengale's charges were well-prepared and mentally ready, as they have been the last several games. The Eagles were leading in the fourth quarter by a 28-24 margin when a season long string of injuries finally caught up with them. Oregon outscored the visiting team 20-3 in the fateful fourth quarter after versatile linebacker Tom Savage left the game with the "last injury." This was one time when Massengale couldn't pull another heroic reserve out of his bag of magic tricks.

Deep reserve running back Gordie Hale ran for three touchdowns and hauled in a 57-yard Mark Laitala aerial for another. Chargin' Charlie Crawford accounted for 86 yards in 22 carries, comprising the rest of Eastern's rushing offense. Laitala connected on 16 out of 40 passes for 216 yards and was intercepted three times. Receivers Al Berta grabbed 6 of those passes for 64 yards and Tom Bassett 4 for 59.

The loss wrapped up the conference season for the valiant Eagles and dropped them to third place behind Saturday victors' Central and Western Washington. Both of these teams have another conference test (Central entertains Oregon College and Western's at Southern Oregon) and should both lose, Eastern would have sole possession of second place. Not bad for a young team riddled with injuries and coming off a losing season last year.

Western Montana will invade Cheney Saturday in a non-conference last hurrah and it's a fine opportunity for a good crowd to show its appreciation for the team's fine season-long efforts.

Intramural Action

by David Stocker
Sports Writer

Battling through a drizzling rain and wet grounds, Hawaii Five-O needed an extra period to defeat the Pikes and claim this year's flag football title 13-12.

John Goheen put the Pikes into an early lead as he rambed 15 yards for the score. Hawaii Five-O came surging back as Larry Frank pulled in his first touchdown pass of the afternoon from Greg Solomon to tie it up at 6-6. Then before the end of the first half, the Pikes' John Goheen raced 65 yards down the sideline to give the Pikes the halftime lead at 12-6.

Defense dominated the second half as both teams failed to mount much of an offense. Then, with little more than 10 plays left in the game, Solomon again connected with Larry Frank for the tying touchdown and, with the missed extra point attempt, sent the game into overtime.

In the overtime period, Hawaii moved the ball down to their 19 yard line, but the drive stalled and the Pikes took possession. But on the first play from scrimmage, John Dang broke through the Pikes line and dropped Goheen for a loss. The Pikes were unable to recover from there, and their final pass of the game fell to the open ground, giving Hawaii Five-O their long awaited championship.

Women's Football

In Women's football action, the Stealers finished the regular season with a 6-0 victory over their arch-rival Chumpettes. Stealers' quarterback Sharon Bosma passed to Lanna Hamilton, who pitched back to Brenda Williams, and ran it in for the game's only score. The victory leaves the Stealers and Chumpettes tied with a 6-1 record going into this week's playoff action. Finals for the women's football will be today at 3:00 on the flag football fields.

Men's Racquetball

Men's racquetball tournament is scheduled for this Saturday. Entry forms may be picked up in the Intramural office, Room 252 of Phase I. Don't forget to sign-up for this coming event.

Co-Ed Bowling

Intramural Co-ed Bowling results from last week find the Butt Plugs solidly in first place with a 12-4 record. High game in the Tuesday evening league was rolled by Gregg Helbeson at 191, while high series honors went to John Goold with a 493 series. Mary Peacock took the women's honors with a 100 game and a 289 series.

In Thursday night's action, Bruce McBurney swept the men's top game and series with a 208 and 521 mark respectively. Kathy Felsman captured high series with a 426, and Barb Vargas netted high single game with a 161 effort. Thursday night's leaders find the Bedrock Bowlers and Plotmyers tied for the league lead at 11-5.

Basketball Action

Three-on-three basketball began Monday night in both divisions. Early returns find Bad Company #1 leading the East with a 2-0 mark. Other teams with 2-0 records for the first evening are Cowboys and Indians and Spaced Out in the West, The House in the Central, and Styx and Little Deuce Coupe #1 in the Mid-West division. For the Six Foot and Over league, the favorites seem to be Hot Sauce and Awesome Brothers in the East, and Little Deuce Coupe #2 in the West. House of Kona could be the sleeper.

Martial Arts Tourney Here

Although the television series "Kung Fu" has long since passed, EWSC students will have a first hand chance to see more of the martial arts on Nov. 20.

Spokane will host the largest martial arts tournament of its history in EWSC's Pavillion from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Entrants from the Spokane area, western Washington, Idaho, Oregon, and Canada will compete.

Competition will include Japanese and Korean forms of Karate, full-contact fighting by kick-boxers and exhibitions of other martial arts, including a demonstration in the use of oriental weapons with a Samarai sword show.

For further information, contact the EWSC Tang Soo Do Club, co-sponsor of the tournament, or Keith Quincy at 359-7946. Adult advance tickets are $1.00 and students 75 cents.

Cross Country Team Places 2nd

Eastern's cross-country team placed a solid second in the Evergreen Conference Championship behind tough Central Washington Saturday at Monmouth, Oregon.

Rick Becker (26:54:4) led the Eagle assault with a third place finish but it wasn't enough to overtake the 'Cats' Jim Hennessey (26:26:2) and Lou Boudreaux (26:33:3).

The team scores: CWSC, 23; EWSC, 50; EOSC 80, SOCC, 93; WWSC, 96; OCE, 144.

STUFF SHOT

by Stan Wilkerson
Sports Editor

With the 1976 Eagle football season all but over, the EWSC Screamin' Eagles find themselves in third place in the Evergreen Conference standings.

The Eagles were in a tie for second place, with an outside chance of taking over the number one spot going into the game with the Conference Champions, Oregon College of Education.

Oregon College of Education crushed the Eagle hopes of a title bid with a 44-31 victory that dropped the Eagles out of the three-way tie with the Central and Western Washington State College. And now, it will be up to OCE and Southern Oregon to put the Eagles back into second place with victories over CWSC and WWSC.

Two-TD Underdogs

The Eagles were a two-touchdown underdog going into last week's contest and for three quarters of play, they stayed right with OCE. But, in the fourth quarter, the Owls put the game out of reach by scoring three touchdowns and claimed their second straight EVCO title.

Eastern has come a long way since the start of the season when they gave up 42 points to Whitworth. In fact, if it wasn't for a few key injuries in the Eagle backfield, Eastern could be right in the thick of things, if not on top of the Evergreen Conference.

Eagles Are Home

But, before we drop the curtain on the 1976 football season, we have one last chance to see the Eagles at home.

The Eagles host Western Montana in a Non-conference game in Cheney on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. So, let's be there.

In the words of someone far greater than myself, "Wait until next year."
